Worldwide Botanical Art Exhibition May 2018 - BASA has been invited to participate in a worldwide botanical art exhibition, which will be themed on native plants of each participating country. Many of you will have been excitedly working on your painting of an Australian native, through the holidays. I do hope so! This is a wonderful project and large amount of effort is being directed towards it, to make it a fascinating exhibition to be in, and a part of.

"Come on Australia - lets show the world what amazing plants we have".

For those who aren't familiar with the 2018 exhibition, these are the details:

Artists are invited to submit paintings, with each country having their own exhibition which will be streamed on the internet. Any works submitted are to be 2 dimensional original depictions of Australian plant species: the definition of which is 'any wild plant indigenous to Australia, including natural hybrids, but excluding man-made hybrids'. The emphasis will be on scientific accuracy with true colour representation. Maximum size of the framed artwork is to be 1 metre high by 1 metre wide.

Completed entries and digital images will be required by 1 November 2017.

Finally.....

As a footnote, I must add that I have taken the last month off from office work and computers, spending every spare moment painting. It has been fabulous! I feel so blessed that painting is the most amazing form of revitalisation for me. The joy of discovering a plant, with its marvelous colours, forms, lines, patterns and stages of life cycle - then being able to tell its life story through paint, just intrigues, challenges and delights me. How lucky we are to be able to derive such enormous pleasures and peace in studying and painting plants.

Best wishes to all.
